

A lush green forest scene. The foreground is filled with tall, thin grasses and ferns. In the middle ground, several birch trees with characteristic white bark and dark lenticels are scattered across the landscape. The background is a dense canopy of green leaves, suggesting a healthy, mature forest. The overall atmosphere is vibrant and natural.

Equinox (nothing about bluebells)

Julie Cook and Paul Davies